• ABOUT BIRZEIT

Birzeit University is an independent Palestinian institution, situated 20 km north of Jerusalem, in the Israeli-occupied West Bank. Founded as a school in 1924, Birzeit began its university programme in 1972 and is currently introducing a masters degree programme. The Birzeit website, launched 6 June 1996, is Netscape-enhanced for all versions 1.1 and after. We are working on making the website Microsoft Internet Explorer friendly as well. French language, German Language and text only websites are available with brief information about Birzeit University.

LAUNCH OF ACROSS BORDERS PROJECT - FIRST INTERNET CENTRE OPENED IN DEHEISHE CAMP

Website online at <http://www.acrossborders.org>

Deheishe, July 24 1999 Over 150 people attended the launch of The Across Borders Project today in Deheishe refugee camp at the Ibdaa Centre. The Project was initiated in January 1999 by the Birzeit University Information Technology Unit and aims to bring Internet technology into Palestinian refugee camps across the Middle East. It will see the creation of bilingual (English/Arabic) camp websites, including on-line news, oral history and stories from Palestinians refugees. The Across Borders Project also aims to facilitate the connection of refugees with each other.

The pilot phase of the project was launched in Deheishe Camp, near Bethlehem at the Ibdaa Centre. A fully-equipped computer lab was opened in Deheishe today, and 10 camp residents have recently completed a 36-hour training course at Birzeit University. Courses in basic computer use and internet training will begin within one week at Ibdaa.

Inside the Across Borders Computer Lab, Deheishe

Director of the Birzeit University Information Technology Unit,
Marwan Tarazi

Marwan Tarazi began by reciting a poem by Kamal Nasir, which discussed the idea of right of return and the importance of keeping the memory of Palestinian history alive particularly for the younger generation. Tarazi stressed the importance of this project in this respect - as a way of recording and telling the history of Palestinian dispossession since 1948 through the eyes of Palestinian refugees.

Muna Muhaisen, one of the co-ordinators of the project, said "We aim to create an information bank on refugee issues on the WWW. Deheishe is the first step, and the project will now extend to Gaza and other camps in the West Bank. The camp websites will offer more than just text, utilizing video and audio technology while online photo-galleries will enable a visual sight of relatives separated by distance and time but connected by technology."

Also launched on Saturday was the project website at <http://www.acrossborders.org>. The website provides information about the project and about refugees in general. As camps come online they will be added to this website to form a "refugee ring".

Many messages of support have been received for the project from all around the world. Muna Muhaisen and Adam Hanieh concluded the opening ceremony by reading some of these messages from countries such as Lebanon, Kuwait, USA and France.

GOLDEN OLIVE AWARDS

What is a Golden Olive Award?

The Golden Olive Awards are given to those of Palestine's websites that meet a certain criteria. If you are not a Palestinian or a Palestinian organisation, and you aren't based in the West Bank, Gaza Strip or Jerusalem, and you don't have a website, or if the website you have does not fulfil the criteria described below, you won't get one. Winners of the 1999 Golden Olive Awards were announced on 25 September 1999 - an appropriate date as it is the anniversary of the September 1996 clashes which saw an important development in the Palestinian web scene, the On the Ground In Ramallah Website. Palestinian Internet service providers' websites are not considered for Golden Olive Awards to avoid potential argument with colleagues, although their valuable service is recognised by us all. The logo, which Golden Olive websites are entitled to put on their website, signifies a website based in Palestine that has more than overcome all the difficulties on setting up a site here, and that has provided a well-thought-out, well-implemented, information-rich contribution to the wider community of the World Wide Web. The award is also based on what the website is trying to achieve. For example a daily newspaper website that hasn't been updated for weeks or months is a waste of everyone's time. In 1999, 30 websites out of a possible 204 received Golden Olive Awards. For more detailed analysis of the web in Palestine over the last 12 months, read the special report issued by the Birzeit Webmaster in conjunction with the Golden Olive Awards.

Palestinian Academic Network-PLANET

The Palestinian Academic Network "PLANET" at Al-Quds university is a leading Educational Internet Service Provider in Palestine. Planet links universities, colleges as well as schools with the World Wide Web. It also links Research Centers and some non-governmental organizations. Planet links most of the Palestinian ministries using wireless means of communication such as microwave devices.

Now planet offers connectivity between cities and within cities through leased lines provided by PALTEL.

Mission

Planet's mission is to provide the necessary organizational, technical and academic infrastructure, whereby Palestinian academicians, scholars and researchers will be able to have access to international academic resources and references, communicate with peer scholars, connect local Palestinian universities in a national communications network.

Main Equipment

PLANET headquarters in Samir Amis-Kalandia is functioning as academic ISP. It's connected with IBM - T1 line through a leased line (frame relay, 128kb/s) with the following main equipment:

- SUN SPARC 20 workstation with 2 GB disk capacity running Solaris 2.4 is currently the main server of PLANET -Donation from the UNESCO.
- SPARC storage array handles 12 Gigabytes of data - Donation from the UNESCO.
- 3600 Cisco router with 30 internal modems allowing 30 users to connect (PPP) simultaneously.
- 2511 Cisco router connected to 16 external modems allowing 16 users to connect (PPP) simultaneously - Donation from PEC DAR. NT server, that creates an inner network with print services.
- Proxy Server
- Two UPS's that provide power instantly in case of a power failure.
- 5 low grade PCs used by PLANET team.
- Mail server for the Palestinian Physics Society
