Memorandum

RE: RACHEL'S TOMB AREA IN BETHLEHEM

1. Throughout history, Rachel's Tomb has always been a part of the town of Bethlehem. It lies within the northern municipal borders of Bethlehem and is considered one of its famous religious and historical places.
2. Following the beginning of the peace process in Madrid in 1993, the Israeli government and our Palestinian leadership signed the famous Oslo II agreement in 1995 in which both parties agreed on the arrangements regarding Rachel's Tomb, annex 1 – article V, section 7 clearly states:
 - a. While the Tomb, as well as the main road leading from Jerusalem to the Tomb, as indicated, will be under the security responsibility of Israel, the free movement of Palestinians on the main road will continue.
 - b. For the purpose of protecting the Tomb, three Israeli guard posts may be located in the Tomb, the roof of the Waqf building and the parking lot.*
 - c. The present situation and existing practices in the Tomb shall be preserved.*
3. In contradiction with the Oslo agreement and disregarding all international conventions, the Israeli authorities constructed on March 1996 a concrete wall in front of the Tomb closing the western side of the road and forcing the traffic at the main entrance of Bethlehem to a narrow lane less than 6 metres. Even this bottle-neck was later on closed by the Israeli forces.

Introduction

Jericho is a green oasis in the Jordan Valley which lies 7 km west of the River Jordan, 10 Km north of the Dead Sea and 30 Km east of Jerusalem. It lies 250 meters below sea level and thus it is considered to be the lowest city in the world.

The origin of the name "Jericho" is Semitic. To the Canaanites it meant "The Moon". In Syriac the name meant "Scent and odour". The city is called "The city of Palm" and "The Garden of God".

Jericho is the oldest city in the world. The ruins of the oldest civilization discovered in Jericho are 10,000 years old. There are a lot of important and beautiful historical places to visit in Jericho, such as Old Jericho, River Jordan where Jesus Christ was baptized, Mount of Temptation, Hisham Palace, Ein Al-Sultan (Elisha) spring, Sycamore tree, Monastery of Saint George (Wadi Kelt), Hasmoneans (Herod) Palace, Monastery of Dier hajlah, Kumran Caves, Dead Sea, and a lot more. The nice climate of the city is conducive to tourism both domestic and International.

The average temperature in January is 8.5 degrees and the lowest average annual temperature is 17 degrees. The average annual temperature is 23.5 degrees and the highest average annual temperature is 30.5 degrees. The average annual amount of rainfall is 150 millimeters, and the average annual humidity is 52%.

The amount of rainfall in the Jericho area is less than that of the surrounding mountains and the coastal regions, thus Jericho area relies entirely for drinking and irrigation on subterranean wells and springs such as the Ein Al-Sultan spring. The source of this water is situated in the distant mountains. Ein Al-Sultan spring is considered to be the main source for agriculture. It has an output of 680 cubic meters an hour, and a salinity of 600 fractions in one million. It provides a steady output throughout the year. It is used equally for drinking water and for irrigating.

In addition to its tourist sites, Jericho is considered to be an important area for agriculture. It is famous for its citrus fruits, dates, bananas, flowers and winter vegetables.

which was established after the Palestinian National Authority took over is promising to activate the cultural life in Ramallah.

In the immediate plans for the Ministry of Antiquities is the opening of a Museum in the old city of Ramallah. The Municipality established a library in 1956 through donations from Ramallites in the U.S.

The Ramallah Folklore and Cultural Festival

Ramallah has always been Palestine's main summer resort and most beautiful city and has been the focus of the main cultural and folkloric Palestinian activities. Since the early sixties, folkloric festivals were held in Ramallah every summer to celebrate Palestinian heritage and folklore and to increase the awareness of Palestinians to their identity and land and due to the Israeli occupation in 1967, these activities came to a halt. After the Palestinian National Authorities took over, various initiatives were taken to revive these festivities once again.

In 1996, the Ramallah Governorate in coordination with the Ramallah Municipality, ministries and local institutions jointly coordinated and hosted the fifth Ramallah Folkloric Festival. A number of International and Arab folkloric groups performed in front of thousands of anxious crowd and the event marked the successful revival of the longed for Ramallah Festival.

Introduction

Jerusalem Water Undertaking is located in the Ramallah District of the Palestinian Territories. This district includes one major urban area, the twin cities of Ramallah / El-Bireh, and about 100 villages, municipalities and refugee camps. The region that obtains its water services from the Jerusalem Water Undertaking includes the Ramallah / El-Bireh cities, four other municipalities, 40 villages and 5 refugee camps. (The remaining villages in the Ramallah District that are not served by JWU are either provided with water by the Israeli Civil Administration or not yet served). The served area extends over 500 square kilometers and includes over 25,000 connections serving a population of over 200,000 people.

HISTORICAL REVIEW

Until the later 1950s, the population of Ramallah and El-Bireh depended almost entirely on cisterns for drinking water with the exception of a few local springs. Following the war of 1948 and the resulting influx of Palestinian refugees into the area, the need to increase the water supply in the region became vital. Thus the Ramallah / El-Bireh Water Company was established to deal with this burden and supply water to the area. The new company planned to draw on Ein-Fara Springs northeast of Jerusalem and succeeded in concluding an agreement with Arab east Jerusalem Municipality.

A distribution network and a main pipeline were constructed for the purpose of conveying water from Jerusalem to the Ramallah / El-Bireh area. The limited quantities of water were insufficient for the population of these communities and search for new water sources is necessary.

In 1963, the Jordanian government concluded an agreement with the International Development Agency (IDA) for a loan of $3.5 millions to develop drinking water projects in parts of the Kingdom. The government decided to utilize the underground water at Ein-Samia and started to build what later became known as the Ein-Samia Water Project.

Pursuant to the agreement made between the Jordanian government and IDA, a law was issued in 1966 for the establishment of the Jerusalem Water Undertaking (Ramallah District) with authority to develop new water resources and control all water projects in the area and with the responsibility of providing the population with potable water. According to this law, the JWU was established as a non-profit, independent, civil organization run by a Board of Directors which includes representatives from the three main municipalities in the area.

Since the occupation in 1967, the Israeli authorities subjected all works and projects pertaining to water and water resources to its direct supervision or control through the military order No. 92/1967. The said order prevented any organization or undertaking from the execution of any work connected with the running, management, maintenance or development of water services or resources without the prior approval and licensing from the Israeli military authorities.

Furthermore, in 1982 the Israeli occupation authorities dissolved the city councils of Ramallah and El-Bireh thus disabling the JWU Board of Directors that consists of two members from each city from performing its duties. For five years and without the Board of Directors, the general manager took it on his part to make all the daily and strategic decisions to achieve the Undertaking's goals and proceed with its strategic plans.

At the end of 1987, the Intifada started in the Occupied Palestinian Territories. The whole political, social and financial situation in the area changed. Many people became out of work thus putting extra burden on the Undertaking as far as collecting water fees from the consumers. Even through these tough days of Intifada, the Undertaking managed to survive and even came out stronger than ever.

Destroyed Palestinian Villages:
A Reign of Terror & Systematic Expulsion

Dayr Yasin

Before 1948 Occupation & Depopulation Israeli Settlement The Village Today

Dayr Yasin Before 1948

The village was built on the eastern slopes of a hill, the peak of which was some 800 meters in height and commanded a wide view all around. It faced the western suburbs of Jerusalem (approx. location at  on map)--about 1 km away--from which it was divided by a terraced valley planted with fig, almond, and olive trees. Along the northern rim of the valley ran a secondary road that linked Dayr Yasin to these suburbs and to the main Jerusalem-Jaffa road 2 km to the north. Dayr means "monastery" in Arabic. This was not an uncommon component of Palestinian village names and is hardly surprising in a village so close to Jerusalem. There was in fact a large ruin at the southwestern edge of the village which was known simply as the "Dayr."

It appears that the nucleus of the settlement in early Ottoman times was at Khirbat Ayn al-Tut--"The Mulberry Spring Khirba"--some 500 meters to the west of the village site. In 1596 the village of Khirbat Ayn al-Tut was in the nahiya and liwa' of Jerusalem with a population thirty-nine. It paid taxes on wheat, barley, and olive trees.

The approximate date when settlement shifted to Dayr Yasin is not known, but it is obvious that the name is partly derived from a Shaykh Yasin whose tomb stood close to the ruins of the Dayr. Little is known about Shaykh Yasin or about when the mosque bearing his name and tomb was built.

In the late nineteenth century, most of Dayr Yasin's sturdily constructed stone houses were crowded together in a small area known as the Hara ("Quarter"). Two springs, one to the north and the other to the south, provided the village with water. All the inhabitants of Dayr Yasin were Muslim. In 1906 the westernmost Jewish suburb of Jerusalem, Giv'at Sha'ul, was built across the valley from Dayr Yasin, followed respectively by Montefiore, Beit Hakerem and Yefenof. The secondary road linking Dayr Yasin to Jerusalem and the road to Jaffa ran through Givat Sha'ul.

During World War I the Ottomans fortified the hilltop near Dayr Yasin as part of the defense system of Jerusalem. On December 1917, these fortifications were stormed by troops under the command of General Allenby in the final offensive that led, on the following day, to the fall of Jerusalem into Allied hands.

Until the 1920s, Dayr Yasin's livelihood largely depended on agriculture, supplemented by livestock, but the building boom in Jerusalem under the Mandate changed the basis of its economy. The area around Yasin was rich in limestone--the favored building material in Jerusalem. Early in the Mandate, the

Background

Palestine Wildlife Society (PWLS) was founded in 1999 in Beit Sahour- Bethlehem District by 13 trained and experienced environmentalists from across Palestine. PWLS's scope of work covers the West Bank and Gaza with a multidimensional mission aiming at the conservation and enhancement of the biodiversity and wildlife in Palestine; Moreover, Palestine is known for its location between the three main continents, Africa, Asia and Europe, where there had been estimated around 520 species of Birds and 2700 species of Plants occurring in this area, hence it considered as a major and important grassroots for Migratory birds like Storks, Pelicans and raptors (Such as Lesser Kestrel, Honey Buzzard, Lesser Spotted Eagle, and Egyptian Vulture) that use the Jordan Valley- Jericho; Jerusalem Mountains routes. It also corresponds with the criteria of Important Birds Areas (IBA's) in Palestine in which Jericho has a great importance as one of the major pathways during migration times as well as an important spot for resident and breeding birds.

Also these areas are occupied with a relatively high number of mammalian species (such as Mountain & Dorcas Gazelles, Red Fox, Rocky Hyrax) who are facing the threats of becoming endangered due to the excessive uncontrolled and unregulated hunting activities within different sites. Since its inception, PWLS's has been designated its partnership status from Birdlife International in regards to the IBA's Chapter.

Palestine Biodiversity

Palestine has a global influence, which greatly exceeds its small size. It's a tiny piece of land whose coexisting religious and political diversity is echoed in the remarkable range of ecological variation.

Palestine's geographical position has been both its blessing and its curse. located at the meeting point between Eurasia and Africa. Especially in the eastern southern corner of the Mediterranean Sea, creates unique geography and ecosystems which encountered endemic plants that do not exist in other places in the world and makes the introduced plants coexist strongly. Plants and animals of three continents have interacted and spread throughout history. Consequently, this contribution to the rich diversity of Palestine flora and fauna has long captured the interest of ecologist and scientist alike.

Palestine is located to the east of the Mediterranean Sea between 29 and 33 North latitude 35 and 39 longitude. Palestine (here refers to the West Bank and Gaza Stripe) the two territories border Israel from almost all direction except that the West Bank borders on the east and Gaza Stripe borders Egypt to the south and the Mediterranean Sea on the west. The total land area of Palestine is estimated at 5.16 million dunums of which 1.66 millions dunums are under cultivation (1.5 million of dunums in the west bank and 0.16 million in Gaza strip.)

Gaza City:

Gaza is the largest Palestinian City and the temporary administrative capital residence of the Palestinian National Authority.

After years of occupation and denial of its historical identity, Gaza is now recollect-ing its flourishing past: archaeological research as well as ancient writings have proved that Gaza is one of the oldest cities in the world. Situated in a strategic location on the trade routes between Asia and Africa, between the desert in the South and the Mediterranean climate in the North, Gaza is a very fertile land that has always been an important destination for travelers by land and sea. As a crossroad city Gaza was also a wealthy trading place that has been coveted and regularly captured by successive waves of armies. However, symbols of the struggle of the Palestinians, the citizens of Gaza have shown their determination and vitality. After years of Israeli occupation, Gazans are now fighting in rebuilding their city. A lot has already been done and one can enjoy the beautiful seashore and wonderful hospitality of the Gazans.

Like the Phoenix, symbol of Gaza, the city is born again from its ashes and is taking on a new lease of life.

About Gaza City:

- Gaza is located at 34°-longitude and 31°-latitude.
- The area of the city is 45 km².
- The number of inhabitants is about 400,000 people.
- The city has three universities with a total of 28.500 students.
- Three different currencies are used: US dollar, Jordanian dinar and new Israeli shekel.
- The gross domestic product per capita is (US$, 1997) 1,763.
- The annual average tempe-rature of the city is 20.3° C.
- The highest temperature is in summer and reaches 32° C.
- The lowest temperature is in winter and reaches 6° C.
- The annual average wind speed is 19 knots.
- The highest wind speed is in winter and reaches 60 knots.

Municipality of Gaza

Greetings from the Mayor of Gaza

Mr. Nasri Khayal
Mayor of Gaza

Welcome

It's my pleasure to welcome you at our web site which was initiated to provide you with information regarding the City of Gaza.

Almost seven years ago, the Israeli occupying forces left Gaza and parts of the Gaza Strip and the West Bank, as part of the peace process which brought the return of the Palestinian National Authority under the leadership of President Yaser Arafat.

Much has been achieved during these seven years, and the city enjoys a healthy environment, a beautiful beach and rehabilitated neighborhoods. Quite a change from the dark days of the Israeli occupation.

However, the Gaza Strip still suffers from the Israeli blockade, which deprives the Palestinians from free movement and trade. This is the major factor causing high rate of unemployment and poverty, as part of the official Israeli policy. Like other people of the world, the Palestinians have their dreams of prosperity, stability and freedom. This can be achieved only when justice and mutual respect prevails between the parties.

We look to the future with optimism to establish our Palestinian independent state with Jerusalem as our Capital.

Thank you for your interest and support..

Nasri Khayal

The implementation of building GIA began on the 20th of January 1996 when H.E. President "Yasser Arafat", laid its first basic stone declaring the commencement of building for one of Palestinian symbols of independence.

G.I.A. is located in Rafah area at point number 10 on the Palestinian Egyptian boarder .It has one runway with 3080m length and 60m width.

It is designed according to ICAO international airports standards therefore, its capable to receive most types of aircraft including the wide-bodied jumbo jet.

Its main hall along with modern passenger facilities can handle up to 700,000 passengers per annum, with possibilities for expansion.

Its VIP lounge has the traditional Islamic design with very prestigious feature.

As formally inaugurated on 24 Nov .1998, G.I.A. is considered as symbol of Palestine's solid achievements and its unlimited future potential as the major gate-way of entry and/or exit to/from the country.

According to the recent political agreements G.I.A. has been assigned the code "LVGZ" which reflects an independence in governing and regulating its operation.

Finally, Mr. Salman Abu Halib Director General of Civil Aviation Authority, Director General of G.I.A. would like to present the achievement of the G.I.A. to the Palestinian people and leadership, hoping that the next national airport will open in Jerusalem soon.

Women's Empowerment Project

Stories of Success

According to needs assessment surveys conducted by the Community Development Leaders in both Beach camp and Rafah areas, the economical problem was the first to be identified by women. The WEP main goal is to empower women victims through education and work by providing different services both to them or to their family members.

● Fifi, 24-year-old, single, secondary school graduate. She was born into a large family of 2 brothers, and 4 sisters. Nobody gave her any attention. The oldest brother was the main power source and control in the family. He controlled everyone including Fifi herself, by beatings and insults. Fifi tried to commit suicide several times not only because of that brother but also because of her other educated sisters insults. They succeeded to have higher education while she was forced to leave school because of her mother's illness. Even she was forced to leave her fiancée after 3 years of engagement. On 1 July 1997, Fifi joined the WEP. Among the services provided to her were, vocational training, psycho-social counseling, family counseling, legal and health education.

After finishing her training at the project, Fifi started a small project which included flower arrangement, ceramics and glass painting. She is working now towards marketing her products by herself.

● Sawsan, 34-year-old, widow, secondary school graduate. She has three children. After 2 years at the Islamic University she was forced to leave because of economical reasons. Later she found work and met a man who became her husband and who was killed during the Intifada by Palestinian activists. After this his family threw her and her children out of house, but by the help of some people and police she returned back to their home. They only gave her a small room at the entrance of the house. Sawsan Joined the WEP on 1 July 1997 and finished her training on 31 December 1997. Among the services provided to Sawsan at the WEP were vocational training, psycho-social counseling, health and legal education.

Sawsan started a small knitting business and began marketing her products by herself.

● Nuha, 35-year-old, married and has 8 children. Nuha was forced to marry her cousin who has polio which made him unable to work. Her problems started prior to her marriage. She lived with her family in Egypt where her father was wanted because of accusations against him of killing somebody. The father escaped to Jordan and the mother returned back to Gaza with her five children, one of whom was Nuha. After marriage her mother left Gaza with her children to Iraq while her father stayed in Jordan because of fears of revenge. Nuha lost her family economical and emotional support. She joined the WEP on 1 July 1997 and finished her training at the end of December 1997. Her project is crystal and pottery decoration. She markets her products by herself.

● Aida, 22-year-old, Married, she has a 3-year- child. After she finished her preparatory education she was forced to marry her cousin. Her suffering started the first day of marriage. She lived with his big family in a tiny room. They used her like a servant and if she refused to obey she was beaten and insulted by her husband. Once he hit her with a stick and caused a problem with her eyes. Her husband does not work because he suffers from a skin disease. Aida joined the WEP on 1 January 1997 and finished her training on 30 June 1997. Among the services provided to Aida at the WEP were vocational training, psychosocial counseling, health and legal education. Her project is knitting and ceramics. Her husband markets her products.

● Kareema, 42-year-old, married, secondary school graduate. Kareema was one of the women activist during the Intifada. She joined the Palestinian Women's Union and was arrested for 6 months. She participated in different political activities and was injured 6 times by rubber bullets. Despite her family rejection to political participation, Kareema continued. Kareema married at the age of 35 and has no children. On 1 January 1996, Kareema joined the WEP and finished her training at the end of June 1996. Among the services provided at the WEP, Kareema received vocational training, psychosocial counseling, health and legal education and child care providers training.

Her project is establishing a child care in the area where she is living .

● Suad, 44-year-old, widow. She has 9 children. She was born into a poor family. Her father died when she was 4 years old and later on her mother remarried and she became neglected. When Suad finished her preparatory education, her family organized her marriage. She lived a happy life with her husband who was killed by the IDF during the Intifada.

Suad joined the WEP on 1 January 1997 and finished her training at the end of June 1997.
